The Daily Republican.
 H. K. HAMSHIER, J. H. MOSELEY.
HAMSHIER & MOSELEY, PUBLISHERS.
 DECATUR, ILLINOIS.
 MONDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 29, 1877.
REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.
 For County Judge, SAMUEL P. GREEN.
 For County Clerk, GEORGE P. HARDY.
 For County Treasurer, GEORGE M. WOOD.
 For Superintendent of Schools, JOHN T. MONTGOMERY.

LATE TO-DAY.—For the first time since the introduction of steam in our office we have been compelled to overhaul our engine, and the delay occasioned thereby causes us to go to press over an hour late to-day. The repairs made necessary by over four years of wear and tear, however, are now complete—thanks to the skill and despatch of the workmen of J. F. MacLure & Co.—and we hope to not soon again have occasion to repeat this apology for tardiness, which is our first.

REMEMBER THE ELECTION.
 Votes for Montgomery for superintendent of schools. He is competent and worthy.

GEORGE P. HARDY has made the best city register that Decatur ever had. He will make equally as good a county clerk.

No public officer ever gave his time more entirely to his official duties than has George M. Wood, our popular county treasurer. People who have business with him always know where to find him.

There is but one way to make a political party vigorous and ready for duty when the time comes to act, and that is to keep up a perfect organization, nominate a full ticket for each election and vote the ticket regardless of personal predilections.

It is a noticeable fact that the people who have had occasion to do business most frequently with Judge Green are the very ones who are most enthusiastically in favor of his re-election. Just look around and see if this is not true.

EDWIN ADAMS, the well known actor, whose rendition of Enoch Arden at our opera house some years ago will be pleasantly remembered by many of our readers, died yesterday, after a very long and painful illness. He was a fine actor, and enjoyed the reputation of having lived a pure and blameless life.

WHATEVER differences of opinion may exist among Republicans as to the wisdom of the Southern or civil service policy of the administration, there is one point upon which there ought to be no difference of opinion, and that is that it is the duty of every Republican to stand by his party as against the Democratic party. The President may not have met the expectations of Republicans in some things, but this is no reason why they should quarrel among themselves and allow the Democrats to gain an advantage by Republican divisions. In this respect the Republicans might learn a needed lesson from the Democrats. They have their dissensions and differences over matters of detail, and sometimes pretty big ones, too, but when election day comes they are always found standing shoulder to shoulder, fighting in behalf of the party. Let the Republicans be as faithful and united in behalf of Republican principles as the Democrats are in behalf of Democratic principles, and no matter what the president does, he cannot destroy the party.—Bloomington Leader.

PRESIDENT GRANT'S visit to Marshal MacMahon is one of the picturesque things in history. The two men have many points of resemblance and many opposite characteristics. Their careers have been in some respects strikingly similar. Each was first a successful soldier, and afterwards the chief of a great Republic. Each owed his political elevation principally to the popular esteem which his military renown had brought him, and each was afflicted in some degree by the discharge of political duties by his military education. Grant was in civil life hardly less stubborn than MacMahon, hardly less confident of his own judgment, and not at all less jealous of his own personal prerogative. But as Grant's military record is much more brilliant than that of MacMahon, so, unless all indications fail, will his civil life be regarded as nobler when the lives of both men are finally made up. The American president always stopped on the right side of imprudence; the French president has not always done so. The American has thoroughly at heart the welfare of his countrymen and the permanency of republican institutions; the Frenchman is chiefly concerned about the Church and the dynasty of the Bonapartes. It would be a wholesome thing, perhaps, for the two presidents if they could exchange views freely on political subjects, without reference to official etiquette. Gen. Grant might give MacMahon lessons in statecraft; for, though America has wiser politicians than Grant, it has none stiffer than MacMahon.—Chicago Tribune.

EUROPEAN GRAIN TRADE.
 The Mark Lane Express weekly review of the British grain trade says: "The weather this autumn has been very favorable to northern agriculturists, and the apprehensions felt some five or six weeks since for the safety of the crops proved groundless. In the north wintry weather has set in, and outstanding corn will stand little or no chance of ripening. Farmers appear determined to lose no time in sowing, and have been devoting their energies thereto rather than to threshing out their wheat. This is testified to by the small supplies which have been received at the country markets, and also by the active demand for seed wheat, under the pressure of which an advance of 10s. 2d. per quarter has taken place in some instances. The improvement has not, however, been felt in Mark Lane, but nevertheless, the tone of the market has not been depressed for English wheat. We have now very nearly arrived at that period which may be considered the crisis in the trade as far as regards the influence of imports upon prices. The rapid approach of winter will practically withdraw Russia as a source of supply, and if so marked a decline takes place before the closing of the Baltic ports, there appears to be sufficient strength in the trade to withstand the action of America without our present range of values undergoing any alteration during the winter."

We have made a somewhat careful study of the Evans-Cameron affair, and the conclusion is about like this: Mr. Evans has great confidence in his own fitness, and so he concluded that he would capture the Camerons, put them under obligations to the administration, appear to serve Pennsylvania, and at the same time secure the man he wanted for the English mission. Evans had made up his mind to MacVey, and so he went to work to have the influence brought to bear upon the Pennsylvania delegation to unite upon the man of his choice. When the triggers were all nicely set he made the overture to Senator Don Cameron, rubbed his hands in glee, and went to the state department to await results. Imagine his disgust when instead of MacVey Simon Cameron appeared on the turn of the cards. The nice little trap he had arranged for the clan Cameron sprung and caught himself. Mr. Evans is now nursing his sore head and getting a good deal of valuable advice. A young man played with the fall of a mule. From a bed of anguish he asked his father, between the applications of arnica, if when he recovered he would be as handsome as he was before the accident, his personal comeliness being a matter of pride. "No," replied the old gentleman, "you will not be as pretty as you were, but you will have a sight more sense." Mr. Evans can make the application of the anecdote.—Ind. Journal.

That Empty Bar!
 Ohio State Journal.
 If the bottom of Tilden's "bar" is intact he should immediately invert it over the head of General George B. McClellan.

INDIANapolis, Oct. 28.—The condition of Senator Morton is not so hopeful as it has been for a week past. His stomach has retained nothing that has been taken into it for the past twenty-four hours, and as a consequence he has grown weaker. He has been kept up, in fact, by the administration of opiates and nutritious aids by the hypodermic process. His attending physician, Dr. Thompson, does not think there is any probability of his immediate death, yet it is evident he cannot last long unless there is a change in the condition of his stomach.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A Russian official dispatch from Poreidin says the Grand Duke Nicholas, on Thursday, inspected the battle field of Gorny Dubaick. Troops are elated by their victory. Russian loss, 5,500; Turkish loss, nearly equal, eighty Turkish officers were taken prisoners, and a flag and four guns captured.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Newspapers have interviewed ex-President Grant. He declined to express an opinion of the political situation here. His first impression of France was, it was a prosperous, well-ordered and happy aspect.

The following are Gen. Grant's definite arrangements: He dines on the 1st of November with United States Consul General Torbert, and on the 3d with President MacMahon; the grand banquet of American residents will be given on the 6th, and an extraordinary performance of Italian opera will be given in his honor on the 8th; he dines on the 10th with the Banker Seligman; at the end of November the ex-President and his family will visit Spain and Portugal, and take an American steamer at Malaga conveying them to Gibraltar and Tangier, and skirt the coast of Barbary, disembarking at Alexandria, Gen. Grant will stay some days in Egypt, and return by way of Malta to Italy, where he will remain for some time.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 27.—A terrible double murder, shocking this city and the country for miles around, was committed about twelve o'clock last night, on the Chillicothe pike, six miles north of this city. The victims were Edward McVey and wife, an old couple, aged about seventy years, who kept a toll-gate at the point indicated. A young girl, about 15 years of age, lived with the old folks, occupying a room adjoining theirs, and all particulars known are gathered from her. The way she tells it is as follows: That about midnight she was aroused by the firing of pistol shots, and hearing shrieks from Mrs. McVey, the girl became greatly frightened, and got out of and crawled under the bed. While lying there shivering with fright a man came in her room, searched through all the drawers, but passed out without discovering her. After he had left the room, the girl rushed to a window, jumped to the ground, a distance of about ten feet, and ran to a neighbor's. Several men repaired to the scene, and on entering the house a horrible sight met their eyes. The old man lay on the floor, with a bullet through his heart, and the old lady was sitting in a chair, doubled up, with another bullet in her right breast and another in her head, both in their night clothes, and both stone dead. The house was filled with smoke, the murderer having attempted to burn the building but failed. According to the girl, the murderer had on jeans pants and a black overcoat.

Great excitement prevailed this morning on the spreading of the news. Hundreds of people flocked to the scene, and knots of men collected on all the principal streets, discussing the tragedy. The county commissioners promptly offered a reward of $1,000 for the discovery of the murderers, and detectives from Cincinnati were at once telegraphed for. The old folks had more than $300 in the house, and the impression is that the murderer knew this, and while searching for it, was overheard by Mr. and Mrs. McVey, who got up to try and save their property. Three men have been arrested, but as yet no satisfactory clue has been found. The fact that the old people were killed when their age and feebleness rendered such a step unnecessary, leads to the inference that the murderer was a person whom they knew, and who killed them to cover up his tracks. No doubt the girl would have been killed if she had been discovered.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 27.—An Evening News special says: Grove Kennedy, the outlaw, was captured near Bardonia this morning by the marshal and twelve men. His crimes are numerous.

LATER.
 Grove Kennedy, the notorious outlaw, made famous in Kentucky because of his daring and defiance of the law, was captured near Lancaster, Ky., this morning. Kennedy has committed numerous crimes in the last several years. He was engaged in a riot at Lancaster, then killed a relative, was rescued from jail, visited watering places, became intoxicated and ran off guests, went to Nelson county and tried to kill an engineer for stopping a train at his building. He would ride through the country heavily armed and swore that no man would take him alive. This morning, according to the Courier-Journal's special report of his capture, Marshal Hunter, of Bardonia, with twelve men, surprised him near his father's barn, in Garrard county. Kennedy tried to draw his weapon, but realizing certain death in case he did, surrendered, and is now on his way to Louisville for safe-keeping.

St. Louis, Oct. 27.—The general Sunday School convention and the Christian women's board of missions, an auxiliary organization of the general Christian missionary convention, being held in this city, have been in session to-day. During the session of the former, encouraging reports were received of the field of Sunday school work, and the corresponding secretary of the board reported the general work in a very prosperous condition.

The women's board of missions occupied the day in the transaction of business pertaining to more thorough perfection of organization, and in adopting measures and devising means calculated to advance its special work. To-night a meeting was held by this body at central Christian church which was largely attended. Able addresses were delivered by prominent workers in the cause.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Ex-Governor Tilden was serenaded to-night. In his speech he said: "If our British cousins find it difficult to get a supply of food, we have a boundless supply and a content in which are vast fields of fertile soil, adapted to the use of agricultural machinery, and connected with centers of trade by great rivers, vast internal seas, and 7,500 miles of railway. Why can not British workmen have cheap food? Our farmers, good trade, and our carriers facilitate this commerce. Commercial exchanges, it must be remembered, involve mutuality. We must reform and moderate our barbarous revenue system, and no longer legislate against works of humanity and beneficence of God."

Mr. Tilden endorsed the democratic state ticket and said: "This election has relation to national politics, in regard to which you expect that I should make some observations. You are aware of the result of the contest of 1876. A voice: You were robbed. Mr. Tilden, excitedly: I did not get robbed; the people got robbed. It was a robbery of the dearest rights of American citizens; the right of free government, the right of the people to govern themselves and change their rulers at will. If the American people lie down and consent to sacrifice the integrity of their control over their own government they will commit a wrong not only against themselves but the people of every other land. One thing I promise; one thing I swear, before the assembled people of America, I swear that the government of America will be restored to the people according to the ideal of its founders."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—It can be positively stated that Judge Buckner will succeed Sunset Cox, as chairman of the committee on banking and currency; also that Gen. Clarke will not be re-appointed as chairman of the committee on postoffices and post roads. Gen. Clarke was very active in his opposition, and Judge Buckner very zealous in his support of Mr. Randall's nomination. It is well understood that the Randall committee appointments will be largely based upon the idea of rewarding his friends and punishing his enemies. It is absolutely certain that not a single gentleman from the south or west who opposed him will receive any prominent position on committees, no matter what past service or present capacity may entitle them to. Mr. Morrison will be removed from the chairmanship of the ways and means to make room for Fernando Wood. Judge Atkins, of Tennessee, will be chairman of the appropriations committee, and Gov. Throckmorton, of Texas, will be chairman of the committee on the Texas Pacific railroad. The majority of this committee will be composed of the friends of this measure. Banning will remain at the head of the military committee. Gen. Clark, whose slaughter is fixed, has refused to even intimate what other place he would like.

The senate judiciary committee had a special session to-day for the purpose of considering the interest in the question pending between the United States and the Union and Central Pacific railroad company. They heard Jay Gould on the subject, but no decision was reached. The confirmation of Harlan still hangs fire in the committee. Strong efforts are being made by leading republicans to secure an early adjournment of congress. Vice President Wheeler had a conference with Speaker Randall on the subject for the purpose of securing his co-operation in that direction. Speaker Randall and other democrats do not believe that the measures can be passed in the time indicated by the republicans, and that the session will continue until December.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Attorney General Devens, writing from Washington, expressing himself from active participation in the campaign, says: "I learn with surprise and regret that many of the republican officials hesitate either to speak or vote, alleging as a reason the president's civil service order. In distinct terms that order states that the right of officials to vote and express their views on public questions, either orally or through the press, is not denied, provided it does not interfere with the discharge of their official duties. If such gentlemen choose not to vote, or not to express or enforce their views in support of the principles of the republican party, either orally or otherwise, they at least should not give a reason for such a course which is not justified by the order referred to, and which is simply a perversion of it."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Edwin Adams, the actor, died at 11:15 this morning at the residence of Dan Gardner, and in the latter's arms. He was conscious until within an hour of his death, when he called his wife to his bedside and bade her good-bye. The funeral services take place in St. John's Episcopal church on Tuesday next, and interment in Mount Moriah cemetery.

PARIS, ILL., Oct. 28.—This morning, between 5 and 6 o'clock, John Hand made a murderous attack upon his stepson, John Beck, with an ax while Beck lay in his bed asleep, inflicting several severe gashes. Hand immediately went to jail and surrendered himself. No cause is known for the assault. Hand had been very despondent of late. Beck died this afternoon.

Prior, editor of the Republican, was cowhided Friday evening by a prominent democrat, because of abusive articles recently published in that paper. QUINCY, Oct. 27.—Barney Schlotman, a teamster, attempted to shoot his wife to-night, and failing, he shot himself twice in the head with a revolver. He is still alive, but is not likely to recover.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A Paris correspondent of the Times telegraphs that he believes that President MacMahon has fallen under the influence of those who are determined to resist the will of the Nation, but the cabinet is divided about how far such resistance ought to be carried. The Duke de Broglie, president of the Council and Minister of Justice; Duke de Cazet, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Gen. Borthaut, Minister of War; and Viscount de Meux, Minister of Agriculture, might go as far as a second dissolution of the chamber of deputies; but if the senate refused this, they would resign. There are others who talk of establishing a dictatorship on the ruins of the constitution. The correspondent does not believe that President MacMahon will follow them so far. Well informed conservatives think that a majority of the cabinet would be pleased to have the senate refuse a second dissolution, and thereby afford them the opportunity to bow to the will of the senate instead of the chamber of deputies. The correspondent adds: "If such is really the idea of government, I think the senate will be disposed to facilitate their state."

LONDON, Oct. 27.—It is reported that the Russians pursuing Ghazi Mukhtar have advanced as far as Khorassan, and that Mukhtar has retreated to Kaprik, between Khorassan and Hassan Kaleb. Erzeroum is preparing for a siege. The inhabitants are arming and re-enforcements are hastening up from Trebizond. Ghazi Mukhtar, however, reports that the Russians have not advanced farther than Melidoo, on the western slope of Loughani Dagh, which is more probable than the first statement. A state of panic prevails at Erzeroum, giving rise to all sorts of unfavorable rumors.
